

ZADOCK BARTLETT.

JANUARY 10, 1832.

Mr. HUBBARD, from the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions, made the following

REPORT:

The Committee to whom was referred a resolution to inquire into the expediency of placing the name of Zadock Bartlett, on the list of revolutionary pensioners, report:

That there is full and satisfactory evidence, that the applicant is in very indigent circumstances; and it appears from the declaration of the applicant, under oath, that he enlisted in Captain Wood's company, in Colonel Ward's regiment, in May, 1775, and continued until February, 1776, when he was discharged; making more than ten months' service. This statement is supported by the depositions of Silas Bailey and Reuben Babcock, both of whom are certified to be men of veracity. The reason why the applicant has not been admitted at the department, is, that the services rendered was not in the continental line. As pensions have been granted by Congress for like services, and as the committee are of opinion that such legislation was in accordance with strict justice, and with the equity of the act of March, 1818, they report a bill for the applicant.

NADOCK HARTLETT

JANUARY 10, 1832.

Mr. HUNTER, from the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions, reads the following

REPORT.

The Committee is informed that a resolution to inquire into the expediency of placing the name of Nadock Hartlett on the list of revolutionary pensioners, report.

That there is full and satisfactory evidence, that the applicant is in very indigent circumstances and it appears from the deposition of the applicant under oath, that he enlisted in Captain Wood's company, in Colonel Ward's regiment, in May 1775, and continued until February, 1776; when he was discharged; making more than ten months' service. This statement is supported by the depositions of Elias Bailey and Hendon Babcock, both of whom are certified to be men of veracity. The reason why the applicant has not been admitted at the department is, that the services rendered was not in the continental line. As pensions have been granted by Congress for like services and as the committee are of opinion that such legislation was in accordance with strict justice and with the equity of the act of March, 1815, they report a bill for the applicant.
